Rebecca Darr is an Illinois alumna (BS, Psychology) and CEO of WINGS Program, Inc. Under her leadership, WINGS has become the premiere, largest regional agency providing services and housing to adult and child victims of domestic violence and homelessness. In response to community needs, Darr cultivated new funding sources, launched three resale stores, built new domestic violence shelters, and grew the annual budget from $350,000 to over $8M. She serves on numerous boards and coalitions, including Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence, Chicago Battered Women's Network, Northwest Suburban Alliance on Domestic Violence, and Cook County Commission on Women's Issues. She was named Executive of the Year by United Way and received the Chicago Illini of the Year Award and the Humanitarian Award from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Join us for lunch and conversation about scaling social enterprises to maximize social impact while managing fiscal responsibility.
